The Problem:

You have great products and services that can really help the self-employed, the microbusiness, the freelancer . . .

But only if you could locate them!

The self employed, independent contractor, microbusiness market is notoriously hard to reach because, well, they have a problem too:

20 Million Small Businesses
Have No Home Online

According to the Census Bureau

99% of all business in the U.S. are small business

BUT

95% of those are self employed and/or have 3 or fewer employees

Who are These Small Business?

The Self Employed

The Microbusiness

The Independent Professional

The Freelancer

The Independent Contractor

The Sole Proprietor

The Solopreneur

The Startup

The Issue:

Regular small businesses have a plethora of online sites, assistance and attention devoted to them, e.g. . .

SCORE.org, Inc.com,
USA TODAY Small Business, Entrepreneur.com, American Express OPEN Forum, Bank of America Small Business Online Community, Huffington Post Small Business, MSN, MSNBC Small Business, SBA.gov . . .

But NO SITE exists solely for the largest segment of small business, for this multi-billion dollar market, namely,

The self employed.

The microbusiness

20 Million Strong

Until Now

Introducing a unique, much-needed, and valuable website and self-employment resource center –

TheSelfmemployed

TheSelfmployed

A state-of-the-art website that offers thousands of articles, blogs, videos, and SPECIAL OFFERS AND CONTENT FROM SPONSORS to MILLIONS of self-employed individuals. Geared specifically for the self-employed, the solopreneur, the microbusiness (5 employees or less).

Who Are The Self Employed?

Consultants and Independent Contractors

Accountants and Lawyers

Writers , Artists, and Photographers

Psychologists and Counselors

Architects and Graphic Designers

Computer and Internet Workers

Startups and Entrepreneurs

Real Estate Agents and Brokers

Veterinarians and Medical Professionals

Carpenters, Plumbers, and Locksmiths

Truckers, Limo Drivers, and Cab Drivers

What Do they Need, That They Are Not Being Offered Now?

They often work alone . . .

so they need a sense of community

They usually do not have business degrees . . .

so they need freelance-specific actionable strategies, ideas, and advice

They do not have group purchasing power . . .

so they need unique offers and deals tailored specifically for them

They work with few brands. . .

so they need sponsor-specific ideas and content

And What Do Marketers Catering to the Self-Employed Need?

Although, due to the Not-So-Great Recession, the ranks of the self-employed, microbusiness, and freelancer have seen significant growth in the past few years, finding and targeting this audience is difficult because they

Work out of their homes

Or out of shared spaces

Or at executive suites

Or at Starbucks

Bottom line: corporations & marketers have a hard time reaching the self-employed.

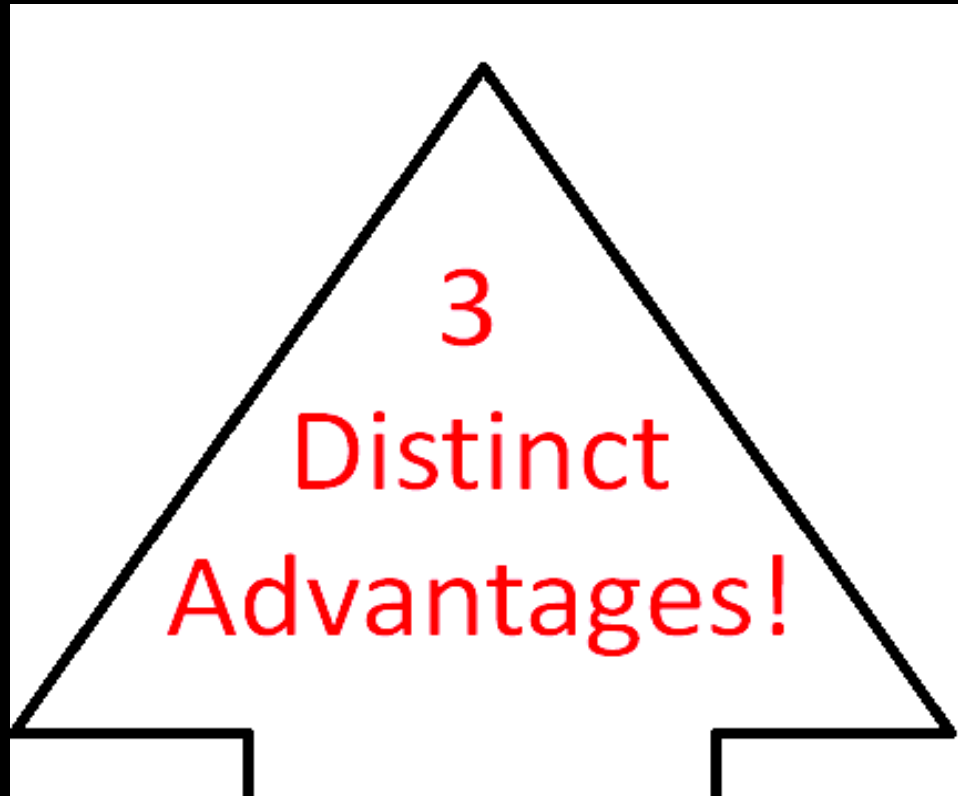

Until Now

INTRODUCING THE SOLUTION for the self-employed and the self-employment marketer alike:

Steve Strauss &
TheSelfEmployed.com

The Business and Web Portal With

Advantage #1: A Trusted Name Brand Host

Steve Strauss – The Senior USA TODAY Business Columnist, author of the Small Business Bible, and often called “America’s leading small business expert” hosts the site and has licensed his brand and content to the site.

Advantage # 2

Trusted name brand sponsors already have signed on: Staples, EHealthInsurance, SCORE, and more.
Only a limited number of sponsorships are left.

The Self Employed.com has various Resource Centers, each of which can hosted by a different sponsor.
Centers include...

The Tech Center
The Marketing Center
The Insurance Center
The Startup Center
and more!

Each sponsor/host of each center has 100% 24 / 7 / 365 exclusivity to influence and market to this affluent, tech savvy market.

Advantage # 3

A Unique, Powerful Content Strategy

First, Steve has an archive of over 1,000 articles on every small business subject imaginable: Social Media, Law, Marketing, Insurance, Tech, Interviews, and more, which he has licensed to the site.

Additionally,
because of Steve's reputation in the small business space and connection with USA TODAY, TheSelfEmployed receives, daily, guest content from entrepreneurs, VCs, authors, PR firms, App developers, and other influential thought leaders...

This means that your section of the site will have, and has, ongoing, continuous, valuable, engaging content – which you can also share on your own site

Also, we encourage site sponsors to share their own content on TheSelfEmployed , thus giving you a new megaphone with which to share your message – and yet, in a friendly, soft-sell sort of way.

We then take this content, and additionally share it with our social media audience –

Facebook.com/TheSelfEmployed: 50,000 Likes

@SteveStrauss: 30,000 Followers

@TheSelfEmployed: 5,000 Followers

Meaning, combined, almost 100,000 engaged Friends and Followers will see your content on a weekly basis!

BOTTOM LINE

Rarely is one afforded a truly ground floor opportunity for such an open, and vast field, but that is precisely the case here.

While information and tools abound online to help small businesses grow their business, there is scant similar content, tools, and offers available for the self-employed / microbusiness/ freelance market.

It is a wide open playing field.

Imagine combining your own brand with that of Steve Strauss, Staples, SCORE, eHealth and more. Together we can:

- * Reach this hard-to-reach audience
- * Get our desired messages across in a unique and influential way
- * Influence buying habits
- * Tap a huge and growing audience, with little competition

Or don't imagine it.

Have it.
